

Important notes for buyers of Automobilia auctions

The descriptions of the lots in the catalogue, also in relation to the state of conservation and to possible restorations are provided as a guide for the potential buyer, but they cannot in any way be considered exhaustive. The condition report, which Il Ponte will send upon request to the potential buyer, is not to be considered complete and may not report all defects or restorations.

These condition reports are produced by our experts on a subjective basis and in no way constitute a declaration or guarantee that can replace the direct examination by interested parties or surveys obtainable only with technical / mechanical instrumentation.

All lots must therefore be examined adequately by the potential buyer or by professionals of his trust, in order to fully ascertain their status in a completely exhaustive way.

The lots are sold in their actual state and the absence of indications as to a defect or a restoration does not imply that such a defect or restoration cannot exist.

Cars, motorbikes and boats, as goods of a mechanical nature and use, are normally used and maintained, and, if necessary, repaired / restored during their existence. They are analyzed by the experts of Il Ponte during the preparation of the auction, but Il Ponte does not assume any guarantee regarding their state of operation, the presence of non-original parts or restorations.

The documents relating to the lots, unless otherwise specified, are not present.
